

August 2010

COLSA Awarded CSMC Contract

COLSA Corporation has been awarded a Contract for Space and Missile Capabilities (CSMC) by the Air Force Space Command (AFSPC). This multiple award, indefinite delivery/indefinite quantity contract has a ceiling value of $450 million. On CSMC, COLSA and its twelve partners will provide support, assistance, advice, and training for the efficient and effective management and operation of AFSPC organizations, activities, and systems. The award presents new opportunities for growth supporting the U.S. Air Force.

“Winning a CSMC award has been a focus for us over the past few years,” said COLSA’s President, Dr. Richard Amos. “We are thrilled with the opportunity that CSMC presents to COLSA. We have a long history of providing the U.S. Air Force with valuable support, and we saw this as an opportunity to expand our support to Air Force Space Command. As we begin work under CSMC, we hope to continue providing the customer-centric service for which COLSA is known. We look forward to building our relationship with AFSPC and are committed to providing exceptional support on CSMC.”